

Integrity

KLW production lines collect, convey, shred and recycle all trimmed plastic as part of the process. This contributes to efficient use of raw materials and natural resources by minimizing transportation steps. Lastly, it ensures no KLW production material ends up in landfills.

Integrity is a powerful word. It accurately describes KLW in two ways — first, through our products, which are rigidly consistent, tough and reliable. Secondly, as an organization, KLW is committed to its role as a quality-driven manufacturer, performing in a manner that consistently demonstrates product excellence as well as responsibility toward a more sustainable environment.

With KLW, you are assured of integrity in the following areas:

Products

We understand the importance of container reliability throughout the supply chain, and the trust placed in us at every point. We meet your expectations in ways that help you build your customers' trust in you, through our focus on the following:

- Dependable, quality containers
- Products that perform as expected
- UN rated standards

Purpose

We approach our business as a leader, and want to help you become and remain a leader in your field. This will be evident from your first interaction with our company, and your confidence in us will grow over time as you experience the following with KLW:

- Attentiveness to needs
- Responsiveness to requests
- Processes that pursue environmental benefits

Fundamental to KLW is our elimination of “commodity” attitudes. Instead we pursue the goal of being the best tighthed container manufacturer, to help our customers succeed throughout their supply chain.
